WELCOME TO YOUR COMPREHENSIVE DIRECTORY OF BUSINESSES IN CLAPHAM JUNCTION!

We are absolutely thrilled that the post lockdown roadmap is underway and, with the easing of lockdown restrictions, we've produced a BID Business Directory booklet which features a little area history, new shop openings and a full business directory, listing companies within the BID area. We hope this informative guide will furnish you with a little local knowledge and details on the businesses near you.

The Clapham Junction Business Improvement District (BID) has been working hard to help our local businesses reopen in accordance with government guidelines. From risk assessments and social distancing pavement stickers, to deep pavement cleans, the implementation of hygiene procedures and the Government's Five Covid-19 Secure Steps, local businesses are ensuring that our community remains safe to welcome back residents and visitors.

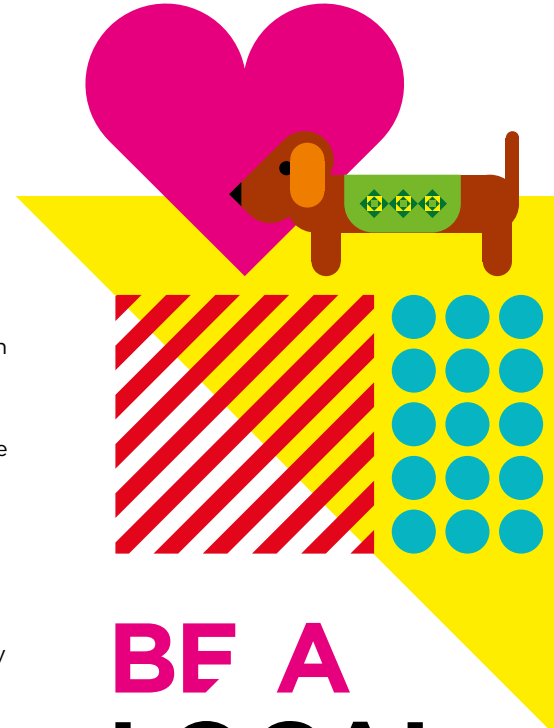

As we slowly emerge from an incredibly tough year, we ask you to support all the amazing cafés, restaurants, bars, retail shops, entertainment venues and wellness and beauty businesses which contribute so much to our vibrant community, here in Clapham Junction.

We encourage you to Be A Local Hero and #explorelocal, #shoplocal and #eatlocal...

Thank you so much for your support.

THE JUNCTION BID HEART OF BATTERSEA

The Clapham Junction Business Improvement District (BID) was formed in April 2019, voted in by businesses in the November 2018 BID Ballot. The BID supports, markets and promotes over 420 businesses within a designated geographical area of Clapham Junction, in the heart of Battersea. Our aim is to establish a strong brand identity for The Junction and create an excellent environment for businesses to thrive and for residents and visitors to enjoy. (Please see page 30 for further information).

THE JUNCTION

In the heart of Battersea...

Our consumer-facing brand — The Junction — is utilised to promote our businesses through our numerous marketing channels; our website visitclaphamjunction.com; social media platforms; newsletters; blogs; events; festivals; our App — The Junction — and our community projects.

We would like to thank you for supporting our campaign — Be A Local Hero: Click Local & Collect — which ran through the festive season last year. The response from residents was truly heart-warming and hugely appreciated by our local businesses.

YOUR JUNCTION HERITAGE

You may already know Clapham Junction as one of South West London's most popular shopping and entertainment destinations, but did you know just how much rich history and heritage there is on your doorstep? Here are just a few factual treats on some historical landmarks that you'll find at The Junction.

Clapham Junction Station

THE JUNCTION — A HISTORY

Clapham Junction Station

In 1856 three railway companies, who respectively had trains running through the area, decided to join forces and build a station where their lines met at the intersection. At the time, the parish of Battersea was sparsely populated and extended east to Nine Elms, west to Battersea Reach, and south to Nightingale Lane and beyond to Bellevue Road. The main settlement was located north, around St Mary's Church — an area which was becoming increasingly industrialised. The Junction as we know it today is, therefore, intrinsically linked to the creation of the railways and the station.

It's believed that the Clapham part of the station's name was an attempt to appeal to the upper class, wealthy demographic (who lived in nearby Clapham), as it sounded smarter than Battersea Junction and detracted from its industrial links. Since the station's inception, this marketing ploy has caused over a century and a half of confusion, with residents, visitors and businesses believing they are in Clapham, which, of course, is on the other side of the Common in Lambeth!

Clapham Junction

Until the mid-19th century, Battersea consisted of a small, somewhat isolated settlement around St Mary's church on the River Thames. Originally a rural area specialising in growing lavender, Battersea was also known for its market gardens and, in particular, asparagus crops (this accounts for the name of the Asparagus Pub at the end of Falcon Road). It's widely thought that Lavender Hill was named after Lavender Hall, built in the late 18th century, where lavender grew on the north side of the hill.

Clapham Junction was originally the site of the London to Guildford coach road, which ran just south of the current station site, past The Falcon public house at The Junction crossroads, in the valley between St. John's Hill and Lavender Hill.

With the opening of the railway station in 1863 and the subsequent covering of the Falcon Brook and Heathwall sluice, along with improved drainage, thousands of homes were built in the surrounding streets. This included St John's Hill and St John's Road (named after the St John family who originally owned the freehold land), Lavender Hill and the Shaftesbury Estate.

Around 20 years after the station opened, one of south London's leading developers of the time — Alfred Heaver — bought up a substantial tranche of land and started a commercial building boom. This created a central focus for Battersea, featuring three-storey terraces with purpose-built shops (to let) on the ground floor. Clothing and shoes, along with food and drink, were the predominant items for sale. Northcote Road, known today for its vibrant boutique stores and foodie haunts, actually developed as a commercial street a little later than the other streets which surrounded the station, though Doves the Butchers opened in 1889 and was a lasting presence for nearly 130 years, until recently.

Battersea Arts Centre (BAC)

The BAC building, designed by E. W. Mountford (a local architect who designed the Central Criminal Court at the Old Bailey), opened in 1893 shortly after the Borough was transferred from Surrey to the newly formed County of London, where it functioned as Battersea's Town Hall until 1965.

After a successful campaign to avoid partial demolition, the building was given listed status in 1970 for its architectural significance and key role in the birth of the suffragette and labour movements. By 1974, the building was unlocked to create Battersea Arts Centre.

In March 2015, during major renovation works, the Grand Hall was severely damaged by fire. Thanks to 80 heroic firefighters and incredible support from the local community, the building was saved. Over 6,000 people generously donated money to fund the rehousing of shows and to rebuild the Grand and Lower Halls. Today, the BAC remains the cultural heartbeat for arts and entertainment in The Junction area.

The Clapham Grand

Loved by Londoners as the ultimate party venue which hosts a nightclub, live gigs, films, bingo and events, The Grand originally opened as 'The New Grand Theatre of Varieties' in 1900. It quickly established itself as the go-to music hall and variety venue for locals, featuring many well-known artistes of the time. In 1927, the theatre was fitted for cinema use and, after changing hands multiple times, along with a closure of 10 years, relaunched as the entertainment venue we know and love today.

Arding & Hobbs

This Grade II listed building was built in 1910 in an Edwardian Baroque style to replace the original flagship department store (owned by James Hobbs and Henry Arding) which had been destroyed by fire. In more recent times, the building housed a list of well-known high street retailers, but it also famously featured in several films and television programmes including the 1981 action-thriller Nighthawks, where the shop was bombed, and the 1993 Mr Bean episode, Do-It-Yourself, Mr Bean. New Romance pop fans may even remember the building featuring in the video Life on Your Own by The Human League! Following many years as home to Debenhams, the building is now under new ownership and undergoing an extensive renovation project. Watch this space...

ABOUT THE CLAPHAM JUNCTION BID

The not-for-profit Clapham Junction Business Improvement District (BID) Ltd is run by a voluntary board of Directors who are responsible for supporting over 420 businesses across Clapham Junction. The Junction BID delivers strategies and innovative projects to improve the trading environment for businesses, the shopping experience for residents and visitors, and to drive tourism in the Clapham Junction area. A BID is a defined geographical area, where business ratepayers have voted (in a ballot process) to invest collectively in local improvements, in addition to those services already delivered by local statutory bodies.

The Board's role focuses on prioritising the following three key themes:

Marketing and Promotion

Attracting footfall and customer spend to the town centre by showcasing what the area has to offer using a full mix of marketing tools; signposting the area to capitalise on the opportunities created by the busy station interchange; a mobile-optimised town centre website (visitclaphamjunction.com); a consumer-focused App with geo-push technology and notifications (The Junction App) including The Junction Loyalty League Scheme; an integrated social media strategy; blogs and social media activity — helping to raise the profiles and online presence of our businesses and brands, and developing employee incentives to shop and buy locally.

Safe and Welcoming

Working closely with the local authority and the police and counter-terrorism teams to tackle crime and antisocial behaviour. Creating a more attractive and inviting townscape for residents, visitors and employees, with community projects such as art installations, urban planting, street cleansing, Christmas lights and graffiti removal — maintaining a welcoming gateway to our business community.

Events and Festivals

Working with traders' associations and community groups to promote an exciting annual programme of events. This includes investment and support for existing annual events, alongside new seasonal ones, plus campaigns to attract extra footfall during the Christmas retail period.
